1966 Was A Very Good Year to Ski the "New French Way"

By DAN BALKIN

Was '66 a very good year because it's when Captain Kirk first trekked into outer space "To boldly go where no man has gone before" – at least on TV? Sure. But skiers have another reason to celebrate 1966. That is the year French ski coach Georges Joubert, who had a knack for brilliantly analyzing what the greatest skiers in the world were doing and explaining it in memorable, straightforward language, wrote his influential book "Ski the New French Way." A great skier in the 60s, Jean Claude Killy, was inspired by Joubert's new ideas and they helped propel Killy to World Cup and Olympic glory. In 1966, Joubert had a remarkable insight that foreshadowed how ski technique would evolve as skiers transitioned from long and ungainly straight skis to shorter and more responsive shaped skis. Joubert's insight was that a ski slope, even if it has a constant pitch, only has a constant pitch when we head straight downhill. Huh? Think of it this way: If you wanted to stop and chat with friends on a local steeper run, such as The Wall at Holiday Valley or Greer Hill at HoliMont, where would you place your skis? The obvious answer is "across the hill." But why would you place your skis across the hill? Because in that position the slope angle is literally 0 degrees (relative to where you are standing). Reducing the slope angle to 0 degrees allows one to stand still without moving. We don't, however, aspire to park on ski hills, we turn. By turning on a slope with, for instance, even a mild 10-degree pitch, the slope angle progressively INCREASES as you do the first half of your turn and max's out at 10 degrees when your skis are pointed directly down the hill. But now you must complete the turn, and the slope angle now progressively DECREASES – 10, 9, 8, 7, 6, 5, 4 degrees etc. as you finish your turn. Joubert realized that this decreasing slope angle is like skiing into a mini mogul – for there is a progressive increase in pressure on the skis as they interact with the decreasing slope angle – just like there is when your ski's encounter a small mogul! Later ski technicians christened this "The Virtual Bump" – but they acknowledged the idea came from Joubert.

Ask yourself, "Are my skis more prone to skid in the beginning or end of a turn on a slope with firm snow?" Again, the answer is obvious – the end of the turn - and it proves Joubert's point that as we finish a ski turn the pitch of the slope is decreasing and acting like a brake slowing us down and creating more pressure on our skis. The essential question: How do we deal with that pressure? The answer on the groomed slopes we mainly ski: Absorb the pressure as if it were a small mogul – every turn transition – over and over. Look at the photo of the modern skier. He is the great Mike Rogan, Captain of the PSIA National Alpine Team, and a skier of legendary grace and efficiency. As he transitions from one set of edges to a new set of edges, he does not abruptly plant his ski pole and pop directly up as skiers often did on straight skis. Instead, we see Rogan progressively absorbing the force of the virtual bump with his entire body while also progressively countering

(keeping the zipper of his ski jacket facing down the hill while turning his legs). An effective ski tip to help you are skiing in a tunnel that is just above your head. Quite simply, don't pop up at the turn transition and "bump" your head against the roof of the imaginary tunnel. Instead, be like

Mike in the middle photo of the montage: Absorb the virtual bump by relaxing your legs and allowing all your major joints (ankles, knees, and hips) to slightly flex. That will keep your head level and lead to a smoother turn transition. "Level headed" skiing works for great skiers and will work for us too.

Ellicottville, NY, December 26, 2022 –The Tamarack Club at Holiday Valley, the resort’s premier lodging facility, has been recognized by RCI with a 2023 Resort Recognition Program Gold Crown. Not only is the facility top notch in its space and exclusivity, but the technology behind Trackman is hard to beat. "This is the same technology used by PGA Tour to show the viewing numbers behind the game when watching on TV. Members learn quickly where they stand and can make real progress." Jake splurged on the technology as he found it far superior and you won't find it anywhere else. Members also find it very user friendly, and appreciate the ease of online booking. Indoor golf provides the flexibility and convenience to play or practice on your own schedule. Play what you want, when you want, with who you want. "Trackman technology offers members and guests the ability to have the experience of over 200 world class golf courses, without ever leaving town." Members can book directly online for as much time as they want up to 30 days in advance. For a limited time, EVL Indoor Golf is offering 1-month and 3-month membership for winter season. Jake feels fortunate to be able to bring the game he loves to more people. "It's a great opportunity to share my love of golf with others, and help them grow and make advancements in their own game. It's great to be able to see measurable advances in abilities and understandings of your own game. And it's pretty fun too." Ellicottville Indoor Golf is currently offering a discounted rate on memberships. For more information call or text Jake at (516)712-5941 email jakenorthrup1@gmail.com and follow on social media.

be how, as she already had her hands full with a full-time job and another business. Good thing Sydnie Beattie was thinking the same thing. Sydnie also had the desire to open a children's boutique here in the village. This would be Sydnie's first endeavor, but she had the same desires, style and ideas as Alana. Alana approached her with the idea to join forces, knowing it would be a great partnership. "We are excited" Alana says, "It's going to be fun".

Both women are local to the area and well known. Ellicottville holds a special place in their hearts. So it was an easy decision to make Ellicottville the "home" location of their business. The goal of course was to open a children's boutique here in the village. The main inspiration for their venture is of course their daughters, both women have two, Addienne and Gracelynn (Alana) and Ada and Kinsley (Sydnie)

Modern Baby Co. will feature unique brands such as Melissa and Doug as well as other brands that you typically can't purchase in department stores. The boutique will feature neutral children's items as well as women owned projects and locally produced items. "I highly value women owned projects, so we are trying to incorporate that into Modern Baby Co.," says Alana. She did note that there will be some larger brand items available at the store as well. Alana and Sydnie will be sourcing items from all different types of people, making it a truly unique establishment.

Modern Baby Co. sits in the epicenter of the village on the corner of Washington and Monroe. Easily walkable from any of the restaurants, shops and bars, there is no reason to not stop in and say hello! A unique establishment run by local women; the boutique boasts an array of children's items that would be a perfect fit for everyone. The soft opening is scheduled for January 14th, 2023 and the grand opening will be announced at a later date. If you can't shop in person, there will also be an online store to shop from.

Ellicottville. This is the second children's boutique location that Alana has opened in the last two years, with Adrienne Grace Co. in East Aurora being her first endeavor. While the two locations will both boast modern children's clothing, accessories, and toys, the two business are completely separate and will be different from each other. Adrienne Grace Co. features a multitude of Buffalo and Buffalo Bills themed items. Alana noted that there is a large market for those unique items there, as it is so close to the stadium. However, those items will not be transitioning this year to Modern baby Co. The Ellicottville location will focus on a more modern and neutral theme.

When approached about opening a second location in Ellicottville, Alana immediately knew the answer would be yes. The question however would Happy New Year! Celebrating Highlights of 2022, Welcoming the New Year to Come!

By CAROL FISHER-LINN
 Is it just me, or was 2022 a truly mind-blowing year? In Ellicottville it began with Bill and Beth Finnerty turning over the keys of Finnerty's to new owner, Angelo Cannata. Warrior Fitness and Wellness is celebrating two years. Here's owner, Bradley Poole's timeless advice: "Live your life. Have fun. Exercise. Be the healthiest version of you. Be a warrior."

got some fresh press from their incredible murals from the days of "I Love Lucy." See them at the Desilu Museum. In February issue 17, we introduced you to local artist Greg Spako, and we made you smile with an international story about retired West Valley school bus #88 and its new home in the English countryside where there are no school buses. Steve Rowe @lucy.usa.to.uk

In March, The Ellicottville Village Mardi Gras Parade celebrated its 30th anniversary complete with Eric Jones' 9' carved snow snowboarder tall and center. Holiday Valley welcomed Nick Pitillo's Nani's Mountainside Food Truck and held another memorable winter carnival. Comedian Amy Poulter made a return visit to Jamestown for a special screening at the National Comedy Center and Lucy Desi Museum. (Lucy was both born and buried in Jamestown) <https://comedycenter.org>

 In spring, we covered stories about marijuana growing as a local Cattaraugus County industry; a Jamestown Biodome project (hydroponically grown starter plants - issue 16); skateboard parks sprouting up, and Timberland Cabin Company opening in Great Valley. Bemus Point Business Association in Chautauque County was featured for the work they do to develop economic development in Bemus Point, and we told of a Dining in the Dark fundraiser for the Blind Association of Chautauque

County in Celeron. We introduced you to Audrey Ralston of the Chautauque Soap Company, maker of high-quality artisan soaps and soy candles, in Jamestown. <https://chqsoap-2.myshopify.com>
 In May, Franklinville welcomed a new plant for the Great Lakes Cheese Company which plans to add another 215 employees when the new plant is up in 2023. The Reg Lenna Center for the Arts hosted a homecoming performance of the 10,000 Maniacs. SNL has nothing on the Southern Tier. We asked readers to vote for Ellicottville in USA Today's Best Small Town for Adventure and you did it! Ellicottville came in #2 for 2022! Congratulations! May put the spotlight on Western New York when racial violence hit home at a Tops Market in Buffalo. An outpouring of support came from the Buffalo Bills and President and Jill Biden as they paid their respects at the site. On a brighter note, Bemus Point held a Hawaiian luau; Holiday Valley and HoliMont found fun ways for folks to hit the slopes in summertime (we're talking bikes, mud, disc golf, paddle boards & more!) and we all looked forward to the summer street markets opening. Summer brought back the Springville Art Crawl, Ellicottville's Friday Stroll the Streets and The Gazebo Series presented by Ellicottville's Chamber of Commerce. Ellicottville had short-term visits from gymnast Gabby Douglas and writer, Cheryl Strayed – well, their 10-foot statues which resided in front of our Town Hall until placed at Griffis Sculpture Park. July saw John and Karen Kent and family sponsor their 34th Ellicottville Championship Rodeo; Ellicottville's Summer Festival of the Arts turned out record crowds; Chautauque Institution (established 1874) opened for the summer 2022 season, OnoFest at Onoville Marina Park welcomed new visitors; we celebrated Ellicottville's Bonnie Koschir's bike trek from Oregon to Maine; and told you about the annual Wild American Nature Festival at Panama Rocks.

2023 EVL Ski Area Events

Mark Your Calendars for another Great Year

Pictured: Left - Men's Day at HoliMont is Friday, February 3 where non-members can get lift tickets for only $59. It is a day of skiing and fun activities. This year the theme is Circusus Maximus. The day is for fundraising but it will also be fun-raising. Right - Winter Carnival at Holiday Valley is Saturday and Sunday, March 11 & 12 which is a fun weekend filled with events to coincide with Mardi Gras in the village of Ellicottville.

BY CHAD NEAL

Well, there we have it, 2022 was but a flash in the pan and here we are getting prepared for a new year in Ellicottville and at our local ski areas. Holiday Valley and HoliMont are gearing up and planning the events new and old that they both host during the ski season for the many guests that visit. The first week of every year at Holiday Valley and in the village, we like to welcome and show our Canadian friends and families the appreciation we have for their patronage and fervent love of our awesome neighbors with Canadian Friendship Week. A great way to start the new year.

HOLIDAY VALLEY EVENTS
Holiday Valley has many events throughout the year, but we will highlight the ski season functions that they will be hosting in 2023. January is Learn a Snowsport Month at Holiday Valley. It is the perfect opportunity to start your ski season with their half priced learn to ski or snowboard packages weekdays. Included in this bundle is a lesson with a ski or snowboard rental and a lift ticket for the beginner hills which are Boardwalk, Slippery Streets Conveyor or the Creekside Quad Chairlift. The daytime price is $38.50, nighttime is $30.50. Your age determines the time of the lessons each day and more info can be found at their website holidayvalley.com. For the college crowd they are hosting a winter break special Sunday, January 8 - Tuesday, January 10, offering deals at The Inn at Holiday Valley with 3 day and 2 nights lift tickets. The students will find a lot during this event, check out the website for all the information. For the Women who love sliding the hills at HV there is a 2-day Ski Clinic with former US Ski Team member Lisa Ballard on Wednesday, January 25 and Thursday January, 26. "Your Turn Women's Clinic" is for intermediate to advanced level women skiers who want to have more control, confidence and fun on the slopes. Ballard along with other strong female instructors will lead groups through "free skiing, drills, non-intimidating race training and video analysis." Registration for this one is limited and they will have discounted lift tickets and lodging as well. February has a few fun events as well including Telestock Friday, February 24. This is a day where telemark skiing is demonstrated and the participants relish this "Day of peace, love and telemark skiing at the Yodeler Champagne Sundeck". The City Garage ski shop is hosting this fun day beginning at 9am with demos and many brands to check out with discounted lift tickets for participants. The following day, February 25, is Holiday Valley's annual Penguin Paddle to benefit the Lounsbury Adaptive Ski Program. This event raises funds to help the foundation with raffles and an auction highlighted by the Penguin Slide where folks of all ages use plastic bags to slide down to the bottom of the slope on their bellies like penguins. Follow their Facebook and Instagram Page @ LounsburyAdaptive for all the info and updates. Sunday, March 5 is the Boardroom Banked Slalom event. This is a great spectator function that is also a fundraiser. The banked slalom course is a Festival returned to the Big Inlet Brewing.

Fall brought an abundance of festivals: Bemus Point Fall Festival, Busti Apple Festival, Cuba Garlic Festival, 5th annual EVL Lacrosse Festival, the 5th annual Amish Country Running Festival in Randolph and the Falling Leaves Festival in Salamanca (since 1979 except for a COVID pause). Who can forget the annual (21st) Ellicottville Rock and Roll Weekend featuring "Good Climb," a five-hour endurance challenge on their slopes. The longest standing rodeo east of the Mississippi came to Gerry with its 77th annual Gerry Rodeo. The 2022 Lucille Ball Comedy Festival hit Jamestown with headliners like Margaret Cho and Jeff Foxworthy. Ellicottville Brewing expanded with a new location in Little Valley and an inviting outdoor patio in Ellicottville. Griffis Sculpture Park held its 9th annual summer festival; Ellicottville put another Taste of Ellicottville in the books (36th); Bemus Point celebrated its Lake Days; HoliMont revealed a new disc golf course. The annual Wild Wing Festival at Gooseneck Waterfowl Sanctuary in the Delevan/West Valley region showcased this one-of-a-kind haven for exotic and endangered water birds. The Mayville Bluegrass

Native American Heritage month. East Otto Country announced their annual Open House (since 1986); we announced a successful fundraiser for the EVGC, and celebrated the Pearl City Clay House Arts Center and Infinity Arts Café in downtown Jamestown. 11 tiny houses (Ellicottville Basecamp) at the bottom of the slopes at HoliMont were featured with plans to open for the coming ski season. Christmas in Ellicottville left everyone in awe with the beautiful lights and holiday atmosphere with the Ellicottville Christmas Stroll taking center stage two weeks later. We remembered the generosity of Ellicottville Central's Project Christmas and cheered for "Buns on the Run," a new drive-through service at Bemus Point Inn. Chautauqua Institution announced the re-opening of their Winter Village and in Ellicottville; Holiday Valley opened for the 2022-2023 winter season. We told you the story of the change of ownership of the iconic, historic See-Zurh House in Bemus Point, re-opening soon and, the opening of the private, membership only cannabis club, The Emerald Lounge, upstairs above the old Tips Up Café. It was only a matter of time for fun-loving Ellicottville. Happy 2023, Everyone!

Kim began on her fitness journey as an aerobics instructor with the Buffalo Athletic Club in 1983. She studied Physical Therapy at the University of Buffalo and graduated with a degree in Education from Buffalo State College. She worked full-time as an elementary teacher for 10 years in the Williamsville School District. In 2000, Kim decided to take a break from teaching to raise her boys. During this hiatus, Kim decided to pursue her fitness career and became a fully certified trainer in 2006. At this time, Kim trained clients out of her home gym in Ellicottville and branched out to join the newly opened Spring Creek Athletic Club in Springville. This experience was not as satisfying as she'd hoped due to the distractions the gym environment added to her training sessions. That's when Kim decided to create a studio for just personal training that provided a private and controlled atmosphere, and in 2009 Core Performance Fitness and Health officially opened. "My vision was to create a space with equipment and an environment best suited for both myself and my clients."

Since 2009, Core Performance has changed locations a few times gaining more square footage with every move. The current location is 55 Bristol Lane in a commercial plaza tucked just behind the main village streets. It's Kim's biggest location yet boasting 2,000 square feet with rubber flooring throughout and separate bathroom and shower facilities. The space is temperature controlled offering a comfortable and bright space to workout.

All of the equipment in the studio was purchased for its core-building nature. Some of Kim's favorites are the TRX, BOSU balls, Kettlebells, cable system and free weights. There are no machines, because as Kim reminds her clients "we are the machines." Kim decided on the name 'Core Performance' since her philosophy and number one goal is to strengthen each client's core or as she calls it our 'tower of power'. "Once we build and strengthen the core, we twist, hinge, stand and overall move better."

The personal training team at Core includes Kim and 2 other CPT, Debbie Fredrickson and Dawn Rowland. With the expansive square footage, Kim is also able to offer a variety of group fitness classes aimed at training the core. Current classes include a TRX based program (TRX strong and TRX fit), Circuit Training classes and a popular Deep Stretch class with Darlene Allen. "This class is really gaining in popularity attracting both men and women who want to strengthen and stretch to feel elongated and pain free."

In January, afternoon classes will be offered, and Core will once again offer The Basics Class. All classes are designed for all gender and ability levels. Core also keeps class sizes limited ensuring all participants enjoy a safe and effective workout. "We have a great group of regulars who have helped us really develop and evolve each class. All exercises can be modified to fit each participant individual needs."

For January 2023, Kim is introducing a new set of 'a-la-carte' fitness class packages. They are designed for drop-in groups who come to Ellicottville seasonally or for the weekends. Individuals pick from an option of three class types, pick a time slot/day, and pick a fitness level to create a personalized fitness class.

Kim is passionate about getting her clients motivated. "It is an amazing opportunity to have the ability to help people change their lives by helping them reach their fitness goals. I've never bought into the 'no pain, no gain' philosophy. I believe in building on people's strengths and guiding them to overcome their weaknesses. It's a process, not a sprint." Kim's experience speaks for itself. She was worked with clients aged 9-95 with a variety of ability levels with everything from rehab to weight loss to staying on task and in shape. "I just turned 57 years old and I've been in this industry since I was 17. I've seen and done a lot throughout my career to help shape who I am today. All of this has contributed to how I help my clients. I can relate to most of them in one way or another. It's all about longevity, and my goal is to help you be your best self."

For more information visit <http://coreperformancefitness.com/> call (716) 698-1198 or stop down to visit Kim in her studio and make an appointment to get in your best shape yet.

Poole knew he wanted to focus on holistic wellness, taking into account both physical and mental health. As an individual with cystic fibrosis, which is a genetic disorder affecting the lungs and other organs, Poole knows from firsthand experience that health is not something to take for granted. "Being born with and living with a life-limiting ailment has really motivated and inspired me to make my health a priority," says Poole. "I wasn't always motivated to take care of myself, though. Years ago, my health was on a downward spiral. I was in and out of the hospital for weeks at a time because I wasn't taking care of myself like I should have been." Poole shares that those with cystic fibrosis have to follow a strict, time-intensive daily treatment regimen in order to maintain their health. "In my early twenties I wasn't doing my treatments religiously. In a nutshell, I was masking all of my mental and physical health problems with alcohol. Had I continued on the path of self-destruction I was on, I wouldn't be here today. I am thankful and grateful I changed my life and made my health my number one priority. Now I can help others do the same!" To that end, Warrior Fitness & Wellness not only offers exercise equipment, training, and fitness classes such as yoga, boxing, and HIIT, but also provides massage therapy with Regina Mowry and chiropractic services with Doug Schindler. And in January, The Edge Hair Salon will be moving from its location on Monroe Street to the Warrior facility.

In addition to owning and managing Warrior, Poole is a motivational speaker. In 2011, he responded to a request to speak at a cystic fibrosis-related event. Over the past 10 years, Poole says, "I've been asked to speak at high schools, colleges, banquets, cystic fibrosis events, cystic fibrosis health clinics and different virtual health and wellness events. My most recent speaking engagement was at my alma mater, the University of Pittsburgh at Bradford. I spoke to students in the Exercise Science Program. The objective was to share my story, inspire and show these younger adults what's possible when you work hard and chase dreams. I also had the opportunity to put them through a killer workout at the end, which I'm sure they all loved!"

Warrior offers different ways to get involved - classes are available to purchase whether you're a member or not, via the StudioBookings app. However, a membership to the gym offers access to the workout facility from 5am-midnight, every day of the week, and there are various deals available, including year-round discounts for seniors, students, military personnel, and first-responders. Holiday Valley and HoliMont members can also receive discounted memberships.

While many people use the new year to jump-start their fitness routine or set a weight loss goal, why not make your overall health and wellness a consistent priority? Warrior Fitness & Wellness truly offers something for everyone, whether you want to relax and recharge with a massage, improve your flexibility with yoga, or develop your endurance with cardio/strength training. According to Poole, "I want to acknowledge that it's a family environment here. All of our members support each other, encourage each other and want to see each other succeed in whatever goals it is we have. We laugh, we have fun and we also push each other to be the best we can be at all times. We have a great community going on here and I look forward to seeing it grow as the years go on."

Find out more about how you can make your own health a priority by visiting Warrior's Facebook page, downloading StudioBookings, calling 716-699-1100, or visiting in-person at 5 Park Ave. in Ellicottville.

snowboarding competition with four divisions of riders. They always have a vendor village and a cookout at the Champagne Sundeck. The fastest times win custom trophies and prizes. There will be beer! As it is a day to celebrate snowboarding. Discounted lift tickets for competitors, but the cutoff is at 125 participants and kids under 18 need a parent to sign for them. March is a big month as we generally close out the season. (This event benefits The PUNT Foundation this year. They are an organization out of Buffalo that assists families of children with pediatric cancer. Saturday and Sunday, March 11 & 12 is Winter Carnival at Holiday Valley which is a fun weekend filled with events to coincide with Mardi Gras in the village of Ellicottville. On Saturday, March 18 they will host their second annual Jamboree Music Festival again to be headlined by Dark Star Orchestra a Grateful Dead tribute band. This festival plays host to several bluegrass/Americana bands and offers a variety of foods, beverages and vendors. The annual Pond Skimming contest will close out the month, Saturday March 25. HoliMont Events HoliMont, on the north-face of the mountain is a member-based resort. It is open to the public on weekdays. HoliMont also has events to checkout through the ski season including Contactor's Day Friday, January 27th, which is their annual event and is the largest one held for local contractors and vendors. Tickets can be purchased at their website holimont.com. On Friday, February 3 they will host their annual Men's Day where non-members can get lift tickets for only $59. It is a day of skiing and fun activities. This year the theme is Circusus Maximus where they will have jugglers, fire breathers, and farm animals? The day is for fundraising but it will also be fun-raising. There will be cigars, scotch and bourbon and the "Return of the Cut and Grill Your Own Steak"; HoliMont's website declares there will be the regular silliness and circus acts! "This will be the Greatest S#itshow on Earth! You will need to experience it to believe it." The event tickets are

$200 and you can register for it on their website. Thursday, February 16 HoliMont hosts Ski 4 a Cure. Partnering with the Ski Club of Lockport they are raising funds to aid Roswell Park Cancer Institute. From 9am-4:30pm $100 will give you lift ticket, food and access to games and entertainment all day. They have a scavenger hunt, a self-timed race, the Bombardier Ball Drop, a costume parade, cross country skiing and snowshoeing and the City Garage will have a demo tent set up as well. A fun day to help out with a great cause. And on Friday, February 24 is Ladies Day at HoliMont. A day with discounted lift tickets and events for the ladies. A day that the girls can let loose and ski and get together. Not too much info is provided on their website, but as the saying goes "if you know, you know". These events and more can be checked out on the resorts' websites and updates will be provided by The Villager newspaper as well. 2023 looks like a lot of fun and winter is here to enjoy. And as Tiny Tim observed "God bless us, everyone!"

Pictured: Left - January is Learn a Snowsport Month at Holiday Valley. It is the perfect opportunity to start your ski season with their half priced learn to ski or snowboard packages weekdays. Right - Sunday, March 5 is the Boardroom Banked Slalom event. This is a great spectator function that is also a fundraiser. The banked slalom course is a snowboarding competition with four divisions of riders. They always have a vendor village and a cookout at the Champagne Sundeck. The fastest times win custom trophies and prizes.

Beat on the Street:

What do You Like Most About Yourself?

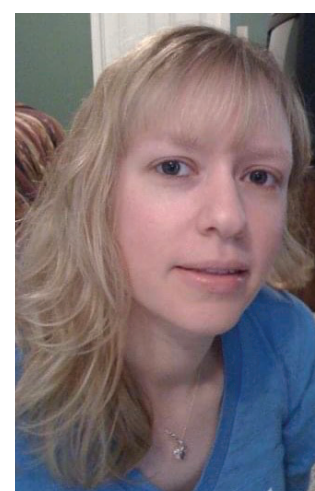

BY CHAD NEAL

This time of year, draws the reflection of oneself as the calendar New Year is about to be celebrated. Many people like to come up with something to change their life a little or a lot. The resolutions some make are to help them change their lives for the better. Everyone has something they would like to change about themselves, but there are plenty of things that folks are very content about involving themselves. We hone our skills and mold our souls as we grow from birth, and we become more self-aware about it as we gain wisdom and age. As we decide to chip away the stuff, we don't enjoy about ourselves, we carefully preserve the things we relish about ourselves. What do you like most about yourself?

Al H. - I'm authentic and honest; and I strive hard to live my life righteously.

Carolyn B. - On most days a few things, on some days nothing, but on a rare magical day everything.

Clara K. - I like most about myself is that I try, I try to be a good friend, good person, and try to be a good example of a good human to my son.

Joany B. - I love my positive energy!

Annie C. - My work ethic.

Nora B. - My authenticity!

In other words, no number will appear more than once in any row, column, or smaller 9 box square. Working with the numbers already given as a guide, complete each diagram with the missing numbers that will lead to the correct solution....Good luck!
